Who are celebrities?

A celebrity is a person who is easily (1) _________________ by people in a certain region or country. Celebrities usually get a lot of media (2) _________________ and often are social people. Many become celebrities because of their (3) _________________ , after appearing in the media or simply (4) _________________ chance. Celebrities who only achieve a small amount of fame are called B- or C-celebrities. In the last decades we have become (5) _________________ with famous people. They have led to the rise of gossip magazines and TV shows and (6) _________________ work for journalists and paparazzi.

Movie stars, television actors and actresses, high-ranking politicians, successful business people, supermodels and athletes usually become celebrities. A few humanitarian (7) _________________ such as Mother Teresa have achieved (8) _________________ because of their charity work. Some people have become known because of their online activities and are regarded as Internet celebrities.-

Because celebrities (9) _________________ a life that is different from that of normal people, the (10) _________________ is interested in their private lives. Magazines and newspapers follow their every move. Celebrities are often shown as glowing examples of success and perfection, or as bad and immoral if they are (11) _________________ in scandals. In order to make money, celebrities often write books, or create fashion brands and perfumes.

Today’s reality shows often (12) _________________ new stars. Normal people have become celebrities simply for taking part in Survivor or Big Brother. In other cases, (13) _________________ citizens have become celebrities for ridiculous things that they do. In the past years celebrities have started to (14) _________________ social media networking sites like Twitter and Facebook. Such services allow them to (15) _________________ directly with their fans without having to (16) _________________ on the media to promote their stories. In the eyes of their fans, social media makes celebrities more human and down-to-earth people.

1 identified accepted
2 attention care
3 career employment
4 for by
5 enjoyed charmed
6 give provide deliver
7 advisors organizers leaders
8 fame pride
9 show manage
10 culture society
11 concerned involved
time
12 invent design
13 normal routine
daily
14 manage use practice
15 communicate join correspond 16 deny believe rely

www.english-grammar.at
A celebrity is a person who is easily recognised by people in a certain region or country. Celebrities usually get a lot of media attention and often are social people. Many become celebrities because of their profession, after appearing in the media or simply by chance. Celebrities who only achieve a small amount of fame are called B- or C-celebrities. In the last decades we have become fascinated with famous people. They have led to the rise of gossip magazines and TV shows and provide work for journalists and paparazzi.

Movie stars, television actors and actresses, high-ranking politicians, successful business people, supermodels and athletes usually become celebrities. A few humanitarian leaders such as Mother Teresa have achieved fame because of their charity work. Some people have become known because of their online activities and are regarded as Internet celebrities.

Because celebrities lead a life that is different from that of normal people, the public is interested in their private lives. Magazines and newspapers follow their every move. Celebrities are often shown as glowing examples of success and perfection, or as bad and immoral if they are involved in scandals. In order to make money, celebrities often write books, or create fashion brands and perfumes.

Today's reality shows often create new stars. Normal people have become celebrities simply for taking part in Survivor or Big Brother. In other cases, everyday citizens have become celebrities for ridiculous things that they do. In the past years celebrities have started to use social media networking sites like Twitter and Facebook. Such services allow them to communicate directly with their fans without having to rely on the media to promote their stories. In the eyes of their fans, social media makes celebrities more human and down-to-earth people.